

TERMS: $1 A YEAR, STRICTLY IN ADVANCE.
THE GAZETTE is a permanently established paper with a paying and constantly increasing list of subscribers. Its circulation in the counties of Hamilton, Hawkins, Cocke, Jefferson, Grainger and Cherokee is more general than any other paper-making it the best advertising medium in the Southern States.

MORRISTOWN GAZETTE.

By JOHN E. HELMS. MORRISTOWN, TENN., MAY 13, 1874. VOLUME 8—No. 10

ADVERTISING RATES.
One square, (ten lines, or less), for first insertion, 50 cents; for each subsequent insertion 25 cents. All advertisements over ten lines will be charged as advertisements. All advertisements over ten lines will be charged as advertisements. All advertisements over ten lines will be charged as advertisements.

New Advertisements.
Lewis & Jackson,
No. 22, Gay St., Knoxville, Tenn.
DIALERS IN
BOOTS AND SHOES,
HATS, CAPS,
Trunks, Umbrellas, and Furs,
GENTS' FURNISHING GOODS,
LADIES' HATS, &c., &c.

R. VESTAL,
Clothing House.
Men's, Youths' and Boys' Clothing of Every Description.

GREAT INDUCEMENTS
TO Merchants!
A SPECIAL
JOBBER DEPARTMENT,
FOR THE TRADE,
to which particular attention is given.
Four doors North of R. S. Payne & Co.
(Sign of BIG BOOT).
GAY STREET, KNOXVILLE, TENN.

Bearden, McNitt & Bearden,
Wholesale and Retail Dealers in CLOTHING,
GENTS' FURNISHING GOODS,
AND MEN'S HATS.
Knoxville, Tennessee.

Professional Cards.
DENTISTRY. DENTISTRY.
THOS. J. SPECK, D. D. S.
OFFICE:
Knoxville, Tenn., from 1st to 15th of each month.
Morristown, from 15th to last of each month.

Frank A. Ramsey,
50 LAMAR HOUSE,
Knoxville, - - - Tennessee.
T. T. CARSON,
DENTIST.
HAYING Permanently located in Morristown, Tenn., and will give special attention to the public. Office over Thomas's Book Store. [dec1]

G. T. MAGEE,
Surgeon and Physician,
MORRISTOWN, TENN.
Will give special attention to the treatment of DISEASES OF WOMEN.
WILL S. DICKSON,
Attorney at Law,
MORRISTOWN, TENN.

JAMES P. EVANS,
Attorney at Law,
MORRISTOWN, TENN.
Will practice in all the courts of East Tennessee. Where the FEE will justify. Prompt attention will be given to collections.

A. H. PETTIBONE,
Attorney at Law,
GREENSBORO, TENN.
Will practice in all the courts of East Tennessee. Where the FEE will justify. Prompt attention will be given to collections.

Hotel Cards.
Turley House,
(OPPOSITE THE DEPOT).
Morristown, Tenn.
T. C. Cain, Proprietor.

Franklin House,
OPPOSITE COURT HOUSE,
Main Street, Knoxville, Tenn.
Wm. Smith, Proprietor.

WASHINGTON HOUSE,
Corner of 5th and Church Streets,
LYNCHBURG, VA.
L. W. SCOVILL & CO., PROPRIETORS.

New Advertisements.
BEN. F. MITCHELL,
CARPENTER & BUILDER.
Morristown, Tenn.

H. H. CROWDER,
Silversmith and Jeweler,
MORRISTOWN, TENN.

MARBLE WORKS.
I am prepared to get up the most beautiful
Monuments, Tombs, Head & Foot Stones
as cheap and with as good taste as any establishment in the country. Orders from Morristown, Knoxville, Greeneville, and surrounding country, solicited. More than satisfaction given. Address
J. B. GADSDEN,
Morristown, Tenn.

D. C. M. LYLE,
FASHIONABLE CUSTOM
GAY STREET, KNOXVILLE, TENN.

AND SHOE MAKER,
Respectfully invite a call from all who desire
Good Home Made Work.

EMIGRANTS TO TEXAS
BE SURE THAT YOUR TICKETS ARE BY THE
MEMPHIS and CHARLESTON R. R.
BECAUSE IT IS
73 Miles Shorter
From Chattanooga than any other route to Memphis.
Fare Again Reduced.

J. H. WALLEY, AGENT FOR
F. HOCKENJOS,
TOBACCO, CIGARS, SNUFF,
All Kinds of Pipes and Smokers Articles.

C. S. FLESHMAN,
Fashionable Tailor,
Morristown, Tenn.

A. R. CROZIER & CO.,
Auction and Commission Merchants,
AUSTIN, Texas.

BARNES & SIMMONDS,
REAL ESTATE
GENERAL AGENTS.

New Advertisements.
Stieff's Pianos.
WEDNESDAY, MAY 13, 1874.

UPWARDS OF FIFTY FIRST PREMIUMS.
GOLD AND SILVER MEDALS HAVE BEEN Awarded to CHARLES M. STIEFF, for the Best Piano, in competition with all the leading factories in the country.

OFFICE AND WAREHOUSES,
No. 9 N. Liberty Street, Baltimore, Md.
The superiority of the Universal Self Piano, is evidenced by all who have compared it with others. In their New Grand Square Self Piano, the manufacturer has succeeded in making the most perfect Piano yet possible.

Taste! Elegance and Beauty!!
MRS. M. A. THOMAS,
MILLINER,
MORRISTOWN, - - - TENNESSEE.

RESPECTFULLY INVITES
the attention of the public to her new stock of Millinery, Hats, Trimmings, etc., which she has just received from the East.

APPROVED SCHOOL BOOKS
PUBLISHED BY
J. H. BUTLER & CO.,
723 Chestnut St., Philadelphia.

L. C. SHEPARD,
UNDERTAKER,
Knoxville, Tenn.

COMMISSION MERCHANT
and Manufacturer's Agent,
C. O. BOX 245,
KNOXVILLE, TENN.

D. W. GLASSIE,
Attorney at Law & Solicitor of Claims and Patents.

KNOXVILLE TOBACCO HOUSE
Cigar Manufacturing.
No. 155 GAY STREET,
KNOXVILLE, - - - TENNESSEE.

Duclos & Esperandieu
Manufacturers of all grades of Cigars from $1 to $100 per thousand. They also keep a Large and complete stock of TOBACCOES, and TOBACCOES, and are prepared to fill orders promptly and accurately.

Encourage Home People.
The Standard of the Morristown
"Eleven" is a fine and useful McClung of this country, was and, and without any explicable cause totally deprived of the power of speech, and since that time has been obliged to use a slate in conveying his thoughts. On Sunday before last he came into the sitting room and said "good-morning" at the same time, and in the evening
he conversed as well as ever.

J. M. P. FLYNN
MANUFACTURER OF
Wagons, Carriages, Buggies, Carts, &c.
MORRISTOWN, TENN.

The Morristown Gazette.
WEDNESDAY, MAY 13, 1874.
RED X MARK.

Laws Relating to Newspaper Subscriptions, &c.
Persons receiving the GAZETTE with a RED X mark on it, are notified that their subscription is due for the current volume and they are respectfully requested at once to remit the subscription price.

There was a rumor, circulated in Morristown on Wednesday last, to the effect that the Hon. James White had been shot, and instantly killed at this place on the Monday before.

UPON INVESTIGATION, I find the story very much resembles that of the gentleman who was said to have vomited three black crows, Col. White. I am glad to say, is in the city of Washington, and for aught known to the contrary, is in the full enjoyment of his usual good health and spirits. A man by the name of Jim Whitesides was shot here, on Monday, but not killed. There is a little similarity in the names, and upon that, I suppose, the rumor was founded.

From the most correct report, I can gather, the affair happened about thus: Whitesides, a huge, double-fisted ruffian, having on board a sufficient quantity of benzine to make him pugilistic, thought he might amuse himself by punning a diminutive, but as the sequel proved, doughty youth, by the name of Geo. Stoffe. He therefore informed Stoffe that he could take his choice of two things, - a d-d good thrashing, or a lively use of his legs. George replied that he had a deep founded dislike to a "backward advance" on such an occasion - that his parents had taught him from his infancy that to run was cowardly and contemptible. He could not now well "go back on" his early training; - moreover he had a decided aversion to being whipped, and concluded by advising Mr. Whitesides to let him alone. That gentleman, unheeding the friendly admonition, was advancing to put his threat into execution, when he was checked in his onward career by receiving the contents of a No. 1 cartridge in his side, the ball ranging upwards and lodging, nobody knows exactly where. He didn't want to whip George any more then, did he, no, he was a man of peace, himself, and not a man of war. As the breeze wafted away the smoke of the pistol, the inspiring effect of his benzine departed, and in the language of our illustrious President he gently murmured - "let us have peace."

So, this is the mouse that the mill-mountain of our rumor has brought forth. Two colored brethren were on the "war path" recently. The matter in dispute was the proprietorship of a certain goose egg. One claimed it because he was the owner of the goose that laid it; the other insisted that it belonged to him as the nest in which it was laid was located on his premises. They referred the matter to the arbitration of arms; one of them, like David, the celebrated giant killer, went to the fray, supplied with a wagon load of rocks; the other armed himself with a well ground axe. Rocks and the better weapon at long range, and that was a long range fight. The defeated party applied to the law for vindication; and Squire Moore was of the opinion that the fractured peace and dignity of the States. Who got the goose egg, I cannot tell.

Wheat looks fine. The fruit is not all killed. Money is scarce, so scarce that the boys can rarely even raise enough for a "little game of draw" or seven up, consequently "business" is very dull indeed.

A French writer says that fence posts prepared with the following receipt will last nearly as long as iron: Take linseed oil, boll it, and mix it with charcoal dust until the mixture has the consistency of ordinary paint. Give to the post a single coat of the mixture of paint before planting them; and no farmer ever living to the age of the patriarchs of old, will live long enough to see the same post rotten.

It now appears that Mrs. Tilton who said such things against Mr. Beecher, made the charges while she was in a half crazed condition resulting from mediumistic fits. When a woman loses her individuality in the crankish crankisms of mediumship, and allows her common sense to be occupied by all manner of spirits speaking through her, the public will take what she says with several grains of allowance till they know what is said by the woman and what is said by the spirits.

PERSONAL. - J. W. Bear, the "Buckeye Blacksmith" of the Harri-son campaign of 1840, and who took daguerotypes in Lancaster about thirty years ago, is now seventy-four years old, and is engaged in selling a book descriptive of his life and adventures. His home is now in Baltimore, and he is employed in some capacity by the United States Government, which yields him an income of $3,000 annually. Lancaster Intelligencer.

"Ho, for the campaign!" would be a good motto for the Grangers.

MOORESBURG.
PARTICULARS OF THE WHITESIDES AFFAIR - A BULLY COMES TO CHARGE - TWO COLORED BRETHREN ON THE WAR PATH - WHEN A PROSPECT GOOD - MONEY SCARCED.

MOORESBURG, May 1, 1874.
To the Editor of the Morristown Gazette:
There was a rumor, circulated in Morristown on Wednesday last, to the effect that the Hon. James White had been shot, and instantly killed at this place on the Monday before.

UPON INVESTIGATION, I find the story very much resembles that of the gentleman who was said to have vomited three black crows, Col. White. I am glad to say, is in the city of Washington, and for aught known to the contrary, is in the full enjoyment of his usual good health and spirits. A man by the name of Jim Whitesides was shot here, on Monday, but not killed. There is a little similarity in the names, and upon that, I suppose, the rumor was founded.

From the most correct report, I can gather, the affair happened about thus: Whitesides, a huge, double-fisted ruffian, having on board a sufficient quantity of benzine to make him pugilistic, thought he might amuse himself by punning a diminutive, but as the sequel proved, doughty youth, by the name of Geo. Stoffe. He therefore informed Stoffe that he could take his choice of two things, - a d-d good thrashing, or a lively use of his legs. George replied that he had a deep founded dislike to a "backward advance" on such an occasion - that his parents had taught him from his infancy that to run was cowardly and contemptible. He could not now well "go back on" his early training; - moreover he had a decided aversion to being whipped, and concluded by advising Mr. Whitesides to let him alone. That gentleman, unheeding the friendly admonition, was advancing to put his threat into execution, when he was checked in his onward career by receiving the contents of a No. 1 cartridge in his side, the ball ranging upwards and lodging, nobody knows exactly where. He didn't want to whip George any more then, did he, no, he was a man of peace, himself, and not a man of war. As the breeze wafted away the smoke of the pistol, the inspiring effect of his benzine departed, and in the language of our illustrious President he gently murmured - "let us have peace."

So, this is the mouse that the mill-mountain of our rumor has brought forth. Two colored brethren were on the "war path" recently. The matter in dispute was the proprietorship of a certain goose egg. One claimed it because he was the owner of the goose that laid it; the other insisted that it belonged to him as the nest in which it was laid was located on his premises. They referred the matter to the arbitration of arms; one of them, like David, the celebrated giant killer, went to the fray, supplied with a wagon load of rocks; the other armed himself with a well ground axe. Rocks and the better weapon at long range, and that was a long range fight. The defeated party applied to the law for vindication; and Squire Moore was of the opinion that the fractured peace and dignity of the States. Who got the goose egg, I cannot tell.

Wheat looks fine. The fruit is not all killed. Money is scarce, so scarce that the boys can rarely even raise enough for a "little game of draw" or seven up, consequently "business" is very dull indeed.

A French writer says that fence posts prepared with the following receipt will last nearly as long as iron: Take linseed oil, boll it, and mix it with charcoal dust until the mixture has the consistency of ordinary paint. Give to the post a single coat of the mixture of paint before planting them; and no farmer ever living to the age of the patriarchs of old, will live long enough to see the same post rotten.

It now appears that Mrs. Tilton who said such things against Mr. Beecher, made the charges while she was in a half crazed condition resulting from mediumistic fits. When a woman loses her individuality in the crankish crankisms of mediumship, and allows her common sense to be occupied by all manner of spirits speaking through her, the public will take what she says with several grains of allowance till they know what is said by the woman and what is said by the spirits.

PERSONAL. - J. W. Bear, the "Buckeye Blacksmith" of the Harri-son campaign of 1840, and who took daguerotypes in Lancaster about thirty years ago, is now seventy-four years old, and is engaged in selling a book descriptive of his life and adventures. His home is now in Baltimore, and he is employed in some capacity by the United States Government, which yields him an income of $3,000 annually. Lancaster Intelligencer.

"Ho, for the campaign!" would be a good motto for the Grangers.

BULL'S GAP CONVENTION.
In pursuance of a call made by Alfred McKinnie, and forty-three others, all of Hawkins county, calling upon the colored voters of the First Congressional District of Tennessee, to meet in Convention at Bull's Gap, on the first day of May, 1874, to consult and confer with each other in reference to the coming contest for Congress, and the various offices to be filled by the vote of the people, a large delegation of the colored voters of said Congressional District assembled at said time and place, and there being no house large enough to contain said delegation, it was unanimously agreed (the weather being fine) to hold said Convention in the Grove, which assembled accordingly.

On motion, Fred. Maxwell, of Washington county, was unanimously called to the Chair, and J. W. Ford and Wm. McGhee chosen to act as Secretaries. Whereupon the Chairman read the call before referred to, and in a few brief remarks explained the object of the meeting - that it was for general consultation, and mainly to express their preference for a Republican candidate for a seat in the next Congress of the United States, and declared the Convention duly organized and ready for business.

On motion of Wm. Jackson of Greene, the Chairman was requested to appoint a Committee on Resolutions, consisting of one from each county in the First Congressional District, whereupon Joseph Wagner, Wm. Jackson, R. A. Perkins, Nathan Powell, Henry Walker, George Pennington, M. Howell, Stephen Hawkins and Alfred McKinnie, Jr., were nominated by call of the Convention, and confirmed by the Convention.

On motion the Convention respectfully requested that no white person should take any part in said Convention, it being a Colored Man's Convention. [Here, under the lead of Fred Singletary, the small Gillenwater faction bolted.]

On motion the Chairman was requested to appoint a Committee on Credentials, consisting of five, also to fix the scale of voting. The Committee retired to discharge their respective duties, and soon the Committee on Credentials returned and reported all the counties in the District legally represented, except Grainger and Hancock, and fixed the scale of voting at one for each fifty colored voters, or fractional part of fifty, and reported the several counties under said scale entitled to the following number of votes, to-wit:

Johnson county 3
Sullivan 3
Carter 27
Washington 45
Greene 45
Hampden 15
Coke 17
Hawkins 10
Hancock 0
Claiborne 7
Grainger 0

The Committee on resolutions returned and through their Chairman presented the following Resolutions: WHEREAS, In the providence of Almighty God, in the late national struggle between the friends of the Government of the United States of America, the friends of liberty and her enemies, several millions of our race were made free; Therefore,

Be it Resolved, That we acknowledge with gratitude the beneficent hand of a kind Providence in such a glorious result to us, and recommend to our people everywhere to cultivate habits of industry, morality, and a high state of moral, intellectual and scientific culture.

AND WHEREAS, The Republican voters of the First District of Tennessee have been called to meet in Convention at Bull's Gap, on the first day of May, and then and there determine what is best to harmonize the party and to insure its success in the coming Congressional election; And,

WHEREAS, An effort is being made to divide the great Republican party by disseminating discord among the colored voters, and thus neutralize and destroy its elective power; Therefore be it Resolved, That we use our every effort to stand united as a party, and to allow no one who is not fully identified with us in our political and civil interest to avert us from what is right.

Resolved further, That we have entire confidence in the Hon. R. R. BUTLER, our present Representative in Congress, believing him to be faithful and consistent in the discharge of his duties as a Congressman, who looks to the interest of the whole country as well as his constituents. Therefore we express our decided preference for his re-election, and the Convention here assembled hereby instructs its delegates in the District Convention to cast their ballots accordingly.

The above resolutions were unanimously adopted, and on motion Hon. R. R. BUTLER was by acclamation, unanimously nominated as the choice of the Convention first, last and all the time, for re-election to Congress.

R. A. Perkins, of the call, called upon to address the Convention, who appeared and delivered an intelligent and well-timed address, which would do credit to any gentleman, and was well received and highly applauded.

Wm. Jackson, of Greene, was called for who appeared and followed in a lengthy, forcible, intelligent, argumentative address, which was of an cheered and well received.

Fred. Maxwell, the Chairman, was called for, and delivered a speech which had the ring of the true metal and was well received by the Convention.

Resolved, That these proceedings be published in the Jonesboro' Echo, Knoxville Weekly Chronicle, Morristown Gazette, and Greenville Free Press.

On motion the Convention adjourned sine die.

LITIGATION. EXTRAORDINARY. - Major Hurrell, the superintendent of the Hoboken ferry, is known by everybody. His character is spotless, and his person is sufficient to make black balls from the box when he was proposed about two years ago for initiation into Hoboken Lodge No. 85, of the order of Free and Accepted Masons. Raymond Cook, Peter Palmer, J. Harry Lyons, and some other Hobokeners were the leaders in the lodge, and their representations of the beautiful mysteries of Free Masonry wrought the Major to a high pitch of enthusiasm. He intended to take the first three degrees without delay, and he paid the fifty dollars, the aggregate fee fixed by Hoboken Lodge for these steps. On the appointed night the first degree was worked, and the Major was made an apprentice. Then followed the ordeal of the second degree, and at that point it was ascertained that the Major had a sore on his knee which, in the opinion of the officers, was so far disqualifying as to "debar him from further advancement in the order."

Good physicians in a requirement candidates for initiation into Masonry, and, as lacking in that essential, he was denied further progress. The Major claimed, however, that his sore knee was only an excuse. He was indignant, and demanded a return of the $50 or election of the two higher degrees. The lodge kept the money on the plea that it was paid, as in all cases, subject to contingencies like the one in point, and was not returnable. The dispute was referred to the Grand Lodge in Trenton, and after some delay the advice was returned that two-thirds of the $50 should be returned.

Hoboken Lodge, however, refused to return any of the money, and the Major sued for it. He was non-suited on the ground that the lodge was not chartered, and therefore not liable to be sued. Under a general law of New Jersey Masonic societies may be incorporated, but, disliking to have their affairs made public in the courts, they seldom take advantage of its provisions.

Major Hurrell has lost none of his spunk, and the lodge is as stubborn as at first. Either is willing to spend a thousand dollars in contesting the possession of the fifty. Three weeks ago the Major began a new suit in Justice White's court against the Treasurer of the lodge, and all Hoboken is talking about it.

WHAT IS A CARMAGNOLE?
The use of this word Carmagole, by Mr. Stephens, has incited considerable discussion, and inquiry in answer to the question, "what is a Carmagole," that gentleman writes as follows:

Editor Constitutionalist: - I have just received a short note containing among other things the following: "What is a Carmagole?" Answer: In your next, and I will tell you.

As I wish to be clearly understood by every one in all I say or write, please allow me through your columns, in advance of my next, to give a very prompt but brief reply to the above inquiry of an anxious correspondent.

My meaning of the word Carmagole, and the use I made of its application in my No. 1 on Mr. Hill's historical address, I supposed would be well understood by all that peruse the publication; at least, who are at all familiar with the article of Macaulay on Barre, from which I had quoted. In it Macaulay says:

"Debar the calm, guarded and sternly courteous language which governments had long been accustomed to employ, were substituted puns, interjections, Ossianic rhapsodies, only words of a schoolboy's levity, and only words of a schoolboy's levity."

Of the phraseology which was now thought to be particularly well suited to a report or manifesto, Barre had a greater command than any man of his time. His reports were popularly called "Carmagoles."

Lord Ellenborough's productions are little more than complete ideas of a "Carmagole."

As to the origin or primary meaning of this word, or how it came to be so popularly applied to the "central manifestoes" of the redoubtable French orator referred to, I know not. I applied it, to Mr. Hill as Macaulay said it had been applied to Barre, and I thought it was a good and specific reference, in the illustration given, by the use of the word.

It will be seen that Mr. Stephens, in advance of his next, essays only to explain the meaning of the word in his application of it to Mr. Hill.

The origin and primary meaning of the word, as far as we can ascertain, is about this: Carmagole was the name of a popular song or dance, which was notorious as the accompaniment of many excesses in the French Revolution. The song first became popular in Carmagnole, a town of Piedmont, and the home of many Savoyards and boys who played the tune. Fashion soon adopted the word, which was next applied to a sort of jacket worn as a symbol of patriotism. Afterward it was applied to the bombastic and financial reports of the "successes" and glory of the French arms. The song and its popular name is said to have disappeared with the Revolution. It was afterward used by Macaulay as stated by Mr. Stephens.

At Portsmouth, N. H., on the arrival of a train of cars over the Eastern Railroad, Thursday afternoon, a man jumped off and demanded of another man standing there, "What's your name?" "I don't know," replied the man. "I don't know," replied the man. "I don't know," replied the man.

The case possessed additional interest from the fact that the winning side was conducted from beginning to end by Mrs. Alta M. Hulet, the well-known lady lawyer of Chicago.

The Plot of Money and its Consequences. - New York Tribune, May 2.

Within the next few days a large amount of money will be disbursed in the shape of interest, dividends and rents. The sum thus paid in interest on the bonds and stocks of the United States is estimated at about $30,000,000 to $40,000,000. In the present universal plethora of money, a large part of this is sure to find its way into Wall street for investment. This is perhaps one of the causes of the revival of speculative interest and of the upward movement in stocks, begun a few days ago. At the close of the market yesterday stocks were buoyant and prices were the highest of the short interest in the market, with few stocks offering. During the recent decline large quantities of stocks were taken out of Wall street through purchases by permanent investors.

How to Keep a Situation. - Be ready to throw in an odd half-hour or an hour's time when it will do you no harm, and don't seem to mind a moment of it. Do it heartily. Though not a word be said, your employer will make a note of it. Make yourself indispensable to him, and he will lose many of the opposite kind before he will part with you.

Those young men who watch the clock the very second their hour is up - who leave no matter what state their mind may be in, at precisely the instant - who calculate the extra amount they can elicit their work, and yet not get reproved - who are lavish of their employer's goods - will always be first to receive notice, when times are dull, that their services are no longer required.

The dearest thing of all is that Dr. Livingston has turned out demagogued, and died. Stanley will not be squarely vindicated as to whether he ever met the old explorer in Africa.

Resolved, That these proceedings be published in the Jonesboro' Echo, Knoxville Weekly Chronicle, Morristown Gazette, and Greenville Free Press.

On motion the Convention adjourned sine die.

LITIGATION. EXTRAORDINARY. - Major Hurrell, the superintendent of the Hoboken ferry, is known by everybody. His character is spotless, and his person is sufficient to make black balls from the box when he was proposed about two years ago for initiation into Hoboken Lodge No. 85, of the order of Free and Accepted Masons. Raymond Cook, Peter Palmer, J. Harry Lyons, and some other Hobokeners were the leaders in the lodge, and their representations of the beautiful mysteries of Free Masonry wrought the Major to a high pitch of enthusiasm. He intended to take the first three degrees without delay, and he paid the fifty dollars, the aggregate fee fixed by Hoboken Lodge for these steps. On the appointed night the first degree was worked, and the Major was made an apprentice. Then followed the ordeal of the second degree, and at that point it was ascertained that the Major had a sore on his knee which, in the opinion of the officers, was so far disqualifying as to "debar him from further advancement in the order."

Editor Constitutionalist: - I have just received a short note containing among other things the following: "What is a Carmagole?" Answer: In your next, and I will tell you.

As I wish to be clearly understood by every one in all I say or write, please allow me through your columns, in advance of my next, to give a very prompt but brief reply to the above inquiry of an anxious correspondent.

My meaning of the word Carmagole, and the use I made of its application in my No. 1 on Mr. Hill's historical address, I supposed would be well understood by all that peruse the publication; at least, who are at all familiar with the article of Macaulay on Barre, from which I had quoted. In it Macaulay says:

"Debar the calm, guarded and sternly courteous language which governments had long been accustomed to employ, were substituted puns, interjections, Ossianic rhapsodies, only words of a schoolboy's levity, and only words of a schoolboy's levity."

Of the phraseology which was now thought to be particularly well suited to a report or manifesto, Barre had a greater command than any man of his time. His reports were popularly called "Carmagoles."

Lord Ellenborough's productions are little more than complete ideas of a "Carmagole."

As to the origin or primary meaning of this word, or how it came to be so popularly applied to the "central manifestoes" of the redoubtable French orator referred to, I know not. I applied it, to Mr. Hill as Macaulay said it had been applied to Barre, and I thought it was a good and specific reference, in the illustration given, by the use of the word.

It will be seen that Mr. Stephens, in advance of his next, essays only to explain the meaning of the word in his application of it to Mr. Hill.

The origin and primary meaning of the word, as far as we can ascertain, is about this: Carmagole was the name of a popular song or dance, which was notorious as the accompaniment of many excesses in the French Revolution. The song first became popular in Carmagnole, a town of Piedmont, and the home of many Savoyards and boys who played the tune. Fashion soon adopted the word, which was next applied to a sort of jacket worn as a symbol of patriotism. Afterward it was applied to the bombastic and financial reports of the "successes" and glory of the French arms. The song and its popular name is said to have disappeared with the Revolution. It was afterward used by Macaulay as stated by Mr. Stephens.

At Portsmouth, N. H., on the arrival of a train of cars over the Eastern Railroad, Thursday afternoon, a man jumped off and demanded of another man standing there, "What's your name?" "I don't know," replied the man. "I don't know," replied the man. "I don't know," replied the man.

The case possessed additional interest from the fact that the winning side was conducted from beginning to end by Mrs. Alta M. Hulet, the well-known lady lawyer of Chicago.

The Plot of Money and its Consequences. - New York Tribune, May 2.

Within the next few days a large amount of money will be disbursed in the shape of interest, dividends and rents. The sum thus paid in interest on the bonds and stocks of the United States is estimated at about $30,000,000 to $40,000,000. In the present universal plethora of money, a large part of this is sure to find its way into Wall street for investment. This is perhaps one of the causes of the revival of speculative interest and of the upward movement in stocks, begun a few days ago. At the close of the market yesterday stocks were buoyant and prices were the highest of the short interest in the market, with few stocks offering. During the recent decline large quantities of stocks were taken out of Wall street through purchases by permanent investors.

How to Keep a Situation. - Be ready to throw in an odd half-hour or an hour's time when it will do you no harm, and don't seem to mind a moment of it. Do it heartily. Though not a word be said, your employer will make a note of it. Make yourself indispensable to him, and he will lose many of the opposite kind before he will part with you.

Those young men who watch the clock the very second their hour is up - who leave no matter what state their mind may be in, at precisely the instant - who calculate the extra amount they can elicit their work, and yet not get reproved - who are lavish of their employer's goods - will always be first to receive notice, when times are dull, that their services are no longer required.

The dearest thing of all is that Dr. Livingston has turned out demagogued, and died. Stanley will not be squarely vindicated as to whether he ever met the old explorer in Africa.

Resolved, That these proceedings be published in the Jonesboro' Echo, Knoxville Weekly Chronicle, Morristown Gazette, and Greenville Free Press.

On motion the Convention adjourned sine die.